

Brazil and Its Flag

Name:

Color the Brazilian flag.

Brazilians call their flag the Auriverde, the gold and green. The green represents the family of the first emperor of Brazil. The gold represents the family of his wife. The flag has 27 stars. These represent each of the Brazilian states, plus one for the Federal District, like our Washington, DC. They're scattered on the blue because this is what the night sky looked like in Rio de Janeiro on November 15, 1889, just a few days before the flag was adopted by Brazil.
